She brought the family together. “ Lisa, you were more than just an aunt to me—you were my guide, my teacher, and one of my greatest inspirations. You taught me so many valuable lessons, from how to carry myself with grace to making rational business decisions and treating others with kindness.

I'll never forget the times you pushed me to succeed in school, quizzing me when I didn't want to do my homework. You taught me life skills, like how to wash dishes and clean up after myself. Some of my fondest memories are baking cookies, brownies, and Rice Krispy treats with you, sharing those sweet moments at home and with my classmates.

You were the best cook I've ever known—the only person who could make Tuna Fish I would eat, and your holiday fudge was something I could always count on. You shaped so much of who I am today, especially my financial and business sense, which I owe entirely to your influence.

I'm proud to have called you my aunt, and I will miss you dearly with every breath I take until we meet again.

Love,
Sean

“ to the family of Alesha, my friend, I really tried to take the time to think of all the memories we shared for school band and class. First, I must say Alesha was a very private and awesome and best friend of mine when I look back in class I always remembered her being very private, not talking a lot to a whole lot of people. That she and I shared a lot. I remember the times when she would always bake the best sugar cookies and share them with me all the way through middle school and high school.. She truly was a heart of gold, very intelligent, and she was always respectful to her family. I want to say to the entire family. I know she will truly be missed. We pray strength for you all, and that God will forever hold you with the wonderful memories of Alicia rest in peace, my dear friend
