“ Clarence and I worked together for over 22 years at Gibson Dunn. He was one of the most well-read and intelligent people I have ever had the honor and pleasure to call a friend. You wouldn't know it by looking at him or meeting him just once, but Clarence could speak intelligently about any topic, whether talking about local, US or global politics and politicians, current headlines, Hollywood movies and actors or simply the current social trends making the rounds. I learned so much just sitting with him and talking about anything and everything. He was also a proud father, lighting up any time he spoke about his daughter - you are a lucky woman to have had a father like Clarence. He will be surely missed, another soul gone much too quickly from this earth. Clarence, see you on the other side my friend!
