“ Dear Valentine Family, What a wonderful photo and tribute to Mr. Valentine. I worked with him for many years and eventually became his supervisor in 2005. Prior to becoming his supervisor, it never escaped me that James Valentine was the ultimate professional and an expert in his field. At a time when the organization needed him most in the early years of 2000, Mr. Valentine had all the answers and I always appreciated him as a coworker and quickly came to rely on him as a supervisor. I specifically remember selecting him as the Chief of the Central Issue Facility in 2006. He was the perfect choice as we desperately needed someone who could take charge yet remain calm under pressure, had the connections with the services to get things done, and really knew what it took to get the job done! An exceptionally great American, I will dearly miss James Valentine. Salute to you, Sir! Very Respectfully, Peggy Peters, Deputy Director for Mission Support, Directorate for Intelligence, Joint Staff.
