“ It's really something how memories help you deal with the present. I never thought I'd lose an uncle so soon. And I know that God makes no mistakes, but goodness it was hard to accept that Uncle Anthony is gone. I truly believe his spirit is present with us and that makes me feel better, but I will and already do miss seeing his heavy Providence tote bag in the kitchen when I get home. I'll miss wondering where all the cornbread went. I'll miss trying to get his attention during his TV time hard task!. I'll miss vacationing with him during the summer at Massanutten--How in the world are we going to unpack, pump up airbeds, go to the Food Lion, etc. w/o him??!! I'll miss his special salmon that he cooks during family gatherings. I'll miss getting rides to Brookland Station. I'll miss laughing and being concerned about his boisterous snoring. I'll miss so much. Aunt Wanda, I can only imagine how hard it is for you to have lost your life partner. You are my aunt for life. I hope that I can be here for you like you and Uncle Anthony have always been there for me. We'll still have a ball in Massanutten you and Mama in the big room, now! Joey, Aaron & Jon-- I know I'm your cousin, but I consider you all brothers even as time has passed and we've gotten older. I didn't grow up with my biological father, so it's men like Dada and Uncle Anthony consistent, hard working, loving, etc that showed me what to admire in a man. How blessed you all are to have had a Dad like him. Time heals, but we'll never forget.##imported-begin##Chavondra Taylor##imported-end##

“ Dear, Wanda

God will heal you and the boys, in time. I remember when we were boy in Alabama everyday we had a ball with each other playing out side I made a basketball rim out of a bucket and started shooting it through the rim practicing basketball and anthony was not interested in playing with me at the time, but when he did he played so wild that I told him just ride your bike down the hill to keep him from beating me up with his hands your husband was not a fair basketball player but he could play football very very good. He was a great brother and I will miss him especially when we had our heart to heart talk about life. We were taught by daddy how to be real men, men that loved the lord and praise his almighty name. Wanda if you need me call me anytime day or night you are my sister for ever I will be there for you in your time of need. god bless you and the boys amen.##imported-begin##Jeffrey & Judith Taylor##imported-end##

“ Wanda you are a strong women and I so admire that. You and Joe had producted 3 fine young men and I know you will contiune to do so as Joe is still by your side. I will truly miss my times with him and telling him of my life ventures but now it will be passed on to you : I had a dream and I told Joe one last story and that was my private goodbye. Love you and your family and I will continue to pray for you all and you know if you ever need anything I am there.##imported-begin##Taunya R Curry##imported-end##
