“ Audrey, Conrad: May a few lines from Marianne Williamson's book, "Illuminata" comfort you. "When death is no longer an enemy, we would see that death is a recycling of energy, a reordering of cells according to higher assignments in a soul's progression. The spirit enters new channels of life." The love between you and your Mother will be forever. When the grief subsides--in time it will--you will experience the power of your connection with your Mom and you will be forever grateful for your time with her on this plane.

My condolences to the Hipkins family.##imported-begin##Jacqueline L. Davisoni##imported-end##
